5 SHIPS ARE IN DISTRESS IN ATLANTIC STORM

50 MILE GALE RAGES ALONG COASTAL REGION

HOPE ABANDONED FOR FISHING TRAWLER SEINER WITH CREW OF 20

NORWEGIAN STEAMER FERNLANE HELPLESS WITH A BROKEN RUDDER

New York, Jan. 28.—(UP) — A fifty-mile gale, carrying snow and sleet, raged off the New England coast today as two coast guard cutters struggled to the rescue of the British freighter Silver Maple, one of five ships in distress. The imperiled vessels have nearly 150 men aboard.

Hope has been abandoned in some quarters for one of the ships — the fishing trawler Seiner—but it was hoped that the others could be reached in time to prevent loss of life. The Seiner carried a crew of 20 men and now is believed to have gone down with all hands.

Other vessels which had been unheard from after sending distress calls were:

The Italian freighter Capo Vado, with a crew of about 25 men, in distress about 1,000 miles east of the Bermuda Islands.

The Norwegian steamer Fernlane, helpless with a broken rudder 500 miles southeast of Bermuda. She carried about 30 men.

The American freighter Dixiano, aground on the south coast of Cuba. She had a crew of about 25 men but was believed not in great danger.

The cutters Tampa and Mojave were attempting to reach the Silver Maple, whose position was given as 780 miles east of Boston. There were 40 men aboard the freighter. The vessel called for help Saturday and had not been heard from since.

The cutters, in reporting the new gale which was whipping across the north Atlantic, stated they would not be able to reach the Silver Mape's position until early tomorrow.

Several ships reported changing their positions and going to the aid of the Capo Gado and Fernlane, but no word regarding the progress of the search was received.

25 PATIENTS CARRIED FROM BEMIDJI FIRE

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN ATTIC OF BEMIDJI LUTHERAN HOSPITAL

FIREMEN HAMPERED BY 30 DEGREE BELOW ZERO WEATHER

Bemidji, Jan. 28—(UP)—Twenty-five patients, seriously ill, were carried from the Bemidji Lutheran hospital here today when fire broke out in the attic of the institution.

Hampered by 30 degree below zero weather, firemen fought the blaze while every available nurse and attendant prepared the patients for removal into the cold air.

All were taken out without injury and were carried in ambulances, taxicabs and private automobiles to hotels.

Firemen battled the flames until 8 A. M. and were successful in holding down the damage to about $30,000.

The hospital is one of the largest in the northern part of the state.

NOVEMBER TAX SETTLEMENT FIGURES

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Minnesota's 87 counties paid $5,714,541 to the state in the November tax settlement it was revealed today when Koochiching county, the last to make settlement, paid in $11,905.

3 SENTENCED TO IMPRISONMENT

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Roy E. Penn, Fargo, convicted on a forgery charge, Arthur Bender, Glendive, and Charles Vierck, convicted oil station robbers, today were sentenced to imprisonment.

Penn and Vierck were sentenced up to 10 years in the Stillwater penitentiary while Bender was sentenced to a like term at St. Cloud reformatory.

8,000 CHICAGO BELL BOYS MAY BE UNIONIZED

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Eight thousand Chicago bell boys have been asked to organize themselves as a branch of the American Federation of Labor to protect their tips and rights to union hours and wages, Edward M. Sein, president of the bell boys' local, said.

The organization would offer legal support to the bell boys' demands and would back them in their attempts to abolish the "unfair split" of tips with captains and the price some must pay to obtain jobs in larger hotels.

HEROIC TALES SIFT FROM BLIZZARDS

RELIEVE MONOTONY OF WEATHER STORIES AND PREDICTIONS

IDAHO, MONTANA, UTAH AND NEVADA PROVIDE SETTING

Salt Lake City, Jan. 28. — (UP)—Tales of heroism in sparsely settled regions swept by blizzards sifted in today to relieve the monotony of weather stories and predictions.

Idaho, Montana, Utah and Nevada, in the grip of one of the worst storms in years, provided the setting for tales often related in books and on the screen, but less often lived in the mountain areas.

Cowboys fought blizzards to haul a young girl 30 miles through deep snows in Idaho in a successful attempt to reach medical aid and save her life.

Two passengers of a wrecked airplane, terrorized at the prospect of freezing to death in a blinding blizzard, devoted their time and energy to caring for the pilot, injured in the crash, while cowboys battled a blizzard to the rescue.

Salmon river cowboys and stockmen braved intense cold, blizzard and 10-foot snowdrifts to take Marcia Aram, 11, from the ranch of her father, south of Lewiston, Idaho, to Cottonwood, 30 miles distant, for an emergency operation. The girl, stricken with acute appendicitis Thursday, was placed in a covered sled.

All available horses were gathered. The cowboys drove them through the snow, breaking a trail for the sled. The caravan reached Cottonwood late last night and a succesful operation was performed yesterday.

A. P. Ames, of Cadmen, Me., and J. L. Pflueger, of San Francisco, airplane passengers, sacrificed their comfort for the sake of Frank Barber, Boeing transport pilot, knocked unconsicous when he made a forced landing in a rocky canyon in northeastern Nevada. The cabin of the plane was not damaged.

Only one blanket was had to protect the trio during 30 hours of fight against the cold. It was used to make Barber comfortable.

A group of cowboys, equipped with skiis, fought six hours to reach the wrecked plane. It required eight hours for the return to the ranch.

'TEACHER'S PET' KIDNAPED IS CHARGE MADE

Ellaville, Ga., Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—The "teacher's pet," a big strapping boy of 17, and the teacher, comely middle aged farmer's wife, were sought today, a week after they left the Glenn Holly school here in the teacher's car.

The woman, Mrs. M. M. Wellens, 35, was sought on a kidnaping warrant sworn out by the missing youth's father, W. C. Chapman.

Young Chapman was seldom called on to answer questions in class but high marks were usual, it was said.

Many Problems Confront Legislature As It Moves Into 3rd Week of Its 90 Days Session

CONFRONTED BY TWO INQUIRIES INTO BIG THREE

COMMISSION IS ATTACKED BY DAD'S ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE PROBES CONDITIONS AT STATE INSTITUTIONS

By HECTOR PERRIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—Confronted by two inquiries into the administration of the Big Three and faced with at least a half dozen problems of prime importance, the 1929 Minnesota legislature today moved into the third week of its 90-day session.

Already under the microscope of the senate finance committee in connection with reportedly crowded conditions at state institutions, the commission of administration and finance was attacked by the Dad's Association of the Minnesota University because of its alleged domination over university affairs.

The executive committee of the Dad's Association — an organized group of 8,000 fathers — called a meeting at 11 A. M. today and requested that Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, university chancellor, be in attendance.

"Renewal of the efforts of the Big Three to control the University of Minnesota and the virulent attacks upon the integrity of the regents made by the commission of administration and finance," the committee declared, "has created a situation which calls for the immediate investigation by the fathers of the students now attending the University."

G. A. Polley, Winona; A. A. Horton, Fairmont; Ray S. Huey, Duluth; Myron McMillan, St. Paul, and Harold Harrison, A. D. Rahn and J. M. Grill, Minneapolis, form the executive committee.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee was expected to continue its probe into conditions at state institutions. During last week's hearings members of the board of control reported that several of the institutions were overcrowded, in some cases to such an extent that children slept double in a single bed in the home at Owatonna; that additional cottages were necessary for the epileptic colony at Cambridge, a gymnasium was needed at the state school for the deaf at Faribault, and that several hundred patients committed to the state were still outside the state institutions.

The board members attempted to make it clear that harmonious relations existed between itself and the Big Three but nevertheless the commission was reluctant to recommend buildings which the board considered necessary.

The committee, led by Senators A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, chairman; J. D. Sullivan, St. Cloud, and Chris Rosenmeier, Little Falls, is expected to report out appropriations bills quite at variance with the recommendations of the Big Three.

Important bills expected to come up before the legislature in the immediate future include the proposed reduction of iron ore taxes; highway proposals; tax relief for Beltrami and Lake of the Woods counties; state taxation of national banks; anti-loan shark bill and metropolitan sewage disposal.

The ore tax reduction and highway proposals are almost sure to cause sharp breaks in the legislature. Southern Minnesota members will undoubtedly line up against northern members on the tax bill and proponents of a gasoline tax increase against proponents of county reimbursement bonds on the highway measures.

St. Paul, Jan. 28. — Prohibitive taxation on the iron ore industry in northern Minnesota, may like the fable of old, kill the "goose that laid the golden egg," Fred D. Vibert, Duluth, warned a legislative interim committee here today.

In the open hearing conducted by the house interim committee on local indebtedness taxation and finance, the secretary of the Minnesota Arrowhead Association declared that unfair iron ore taxation would drive out of the state "an industry which has poured millions of dollars annually into the state's coffers."

Vibert pointed out that the importation of ore from Cuba, Chile and other countries, coupled with high taxes, seriously threatened the extinction of the mining industry.

The Duluthian explained that unless the state permitted the mining companies to remove the low grade ore at a fair profit, that ore would be left in the ground after the high quality ore had been taken out.

The hearing today was a continuation of the interim committee's study last summer in a trip through the iron range.

MODEST SAILORS HAILED AS HEROES IN NEW YORK CITY

WORSHIP ON LARGE SCALE ACCORDED CAPTAIN FRIED AND AIDES

MOST LAVISH WELCOME POURED OUT IN MANY A DAY

New York, Jan. 28.—(UP) — A group of modest sailormen, hailed as heroes because they braved a driving snowstorm in mountainous seas to rescue 32 men from a sinking freighter, were guests of the city today in the most lavish welcome New York has poured out in many a day.

With Police Commissioner Grover Whalen doubling on his old job of official welcomer, all the fanfare of hero worship on a large scale went into the greeting of Captain George Fried, First Officer Harry Manning and the eight men of the S. S. America who rowed with Manning to the rescue of the Florida's crew.

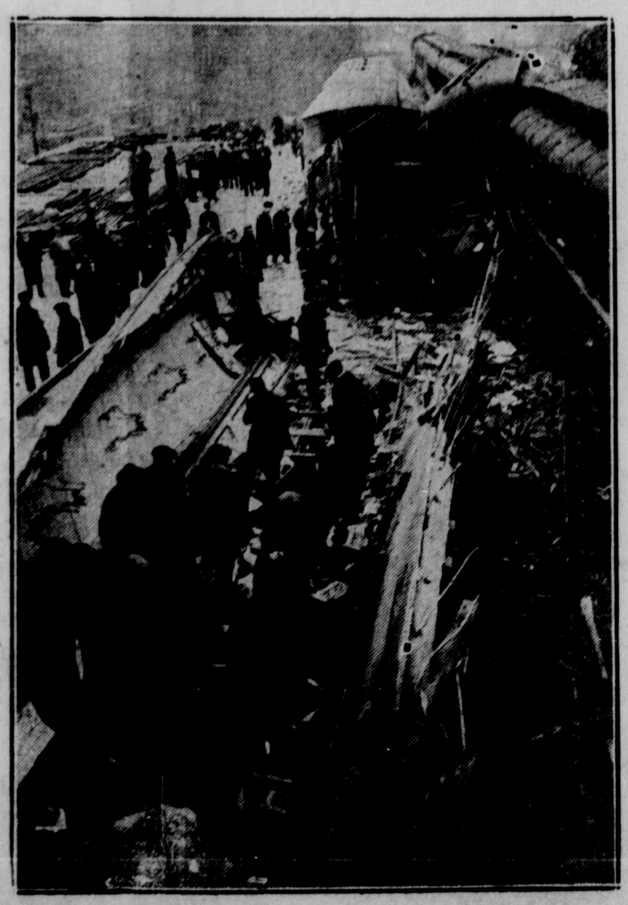

A march up Broadway, from the battery to City Hall, was on the program for noon, just when the streets are thronged with thousands of office workers at their mid-day recess.

Two thousand policemen were assigned to duty along the route. Apart from those in the streets, there were other thousands high up in the office buildings, waiting to begin showering down tons of Wall Street confetti—ticker tape and torn bits of paper—in a veritable deluge.

USES VEST AS NOOSE; HANGS SELF IN CELL

Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Using his vest as a noose, Thomas Christenhan hanged himself in his cell in the Wyandotte county jail here early today. Christenhan was committed to the jail last night on his own request, claiming his life had been threatened because of some life insurance he was carrying.

RESENTS SCOLDING OF FATHER, TAKES POISON, KILLS SELF

Medina, O., Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Nellie Lawrence, 17, daughter of C. W. Lawrence, president of the Medina Monument works, died because her father scolded her for violating his injunction against "having dates."

The girl's father had forbidden her to have dates until she reached the age of 18 but she met a boy friend and attended a party with him.

When she returned home her father scolded her. She went to her room and swallowed poison.

FALL OF 22,000 FEET DOES NOT SHAKE NERVES

LIEUT. JOHN B. HADDON PREPARES FOR MORE EXPERIMENTS

REFUSES TO BECOME PERTURBED OVER HIS MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 28.—(UP) — Undeterred by a fall of 22,000 feet in an airplane which burst into flames at the 3,000 foot level, Lieut. John B. Haddon of the flight test unit, Wright Field, prepared for a little more aerial experimentation today.

Haddon refused to become perturbed over his miraculous escape and described it as "all in a day's work."

Haddon was cruising for altitude when his thrilling experience began. He reached 22,000 feet and unprepared for the highly rarified atmosphere (it was 60 degrees below zero) he lost consciousness.

Minus its guiding hand the plane went into a spin and fell to the 10,000 foot level. Here Haddon regained consciousness but the plane was beyond control. At the 3,000 foot level the craft burst into flames and Haddon, with his parachute, stepped into space and floated to earth.

The plane crashed, a total wreck.

HURL CHARGES AT SHERIFF OTTESON, FREEBORN COUNTY

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Governor Theodore Christianson today was requested by citizens of Freeborn county to remove Sheriff James B. Otteson from office.

In a petition filed in the governor's office 25 citizens of the southern Minnesota county charged the Albert Lea officer with a half dozen offenses ranging from bribery to extortion.

The sheriff was specifically charged with having permitted prisoners of the county jail to take "vacations" at the nominal charge of $1 a day and in one instance with having allowed a prisoner to leave the county permanently.

Another time, the petition charged, Sheriff Otteson provided a former prisoner, Carl Hambly, with a gun and that Hambly with the sheriff's son, Mervin, went into Mower county and obtained a bribe of $300 from John Freund which was later divided between the three.

Other charges included the following:

That Sheriff Otteson was once called to Manchester to arrest a drunken driver and that although the motorist's automobile contained liquor he was released upon a bribe of $250.

That the sheriff often took prisoners out of the jail on trips and some of them were permitted to go into Iowa.

That he allowed liquor to be transported across the county.

That he permitted alleged deputy sheriffs to serve papers with the result that many chattel mortgage foreclosures and default judgments are questionable at law.

THREATS AND WORRIES BESET ADMINISTRATION

IS ONE REMAINING POINT IN THE COOLIDGE LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

HOPE TO SAVE IT FROM A LAST MINUTE JAM IN THE LEGISLATURE

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Jan. 28.—The cruiser bill is expected to pass the senate before Wednesday despite threats and worries which have beset administration leaders steering its course through congress.

It is the one remaining point in the administration's legislative program which administrators in congress have decided must be saved from the expected last minute jam usually corrupting the closing days of a short session. They expect to pass the cruiser bill without even the change suggested by President Coolidge for delay in construction.

The measure then will be sent to the house for ratification of the changes made by the senate. The house passed the measure a year ago.

The changes involve the Borah amendment recommending an international conference for codification of maritime law and a restriction requiring the secretary of navy to construct the 15 new cruisers in government navy yards. House leaders expect to pass upon them without sending them to conference.

Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee said Mr. Hoover recently left the impression with him that the president-elect desires a navy second to none in power and efficiency and a navy commensurate with our world commercial and political position.

"I am sure the time limit will be pleasing to Mr. Hoover," the Britten statement said.

If their plans carry through, the only disturbing issue will remain to be settled before congress adjourns March 4 to make way for a special session of the new Hoover congress. This issue is the first deficiency appropriation bill carrying $24,000,000 more for prohibition enforcement than was provided last year.

The conferees have indicated they would like to kill the increase if they can. The matter will come up in the house shortly when decision will be made as to what instructions should be given the house conferees.

These two matters are the only issues of national importance which administration leaders plan to handle before adjournment.

Farm relief and tariff revision will remain for the special session.

Only the vital appropriation bills for the government departments need be passed before the Hoover inauguration.

Washington, Jan. 28. — Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee today reiterated his stand that he believed Hoover favored retention of the time clause in the pending cruiser bill.

"A first class navy means steel ships, not paper ones," Britten said. "Mr. Hoover in our recent conversation strongly indicated he was for a strong navy and this gave me the impression and left me to believe he favored the time clause.

"Every big navy advocate is in favor of the time limit as the one and only assurance for speedy building of ships to round out the fleet in its peace time maneuvers.

"At the present moment the American navy is in two fleets off Panama. In both of these, in war play for the protection of the canal, small destroyers and obsolete cruisers are taking places which should be occupied by modern cruisers.

"This is a handicap to officers and men who should now be maneuvering 10,000 ton cruisers. This serious drawback to the fleet will be in existence until modern cruisers are supplied by the bill now pending in the senate.

"For protection and prestige of American commerce the world over modern cruisers are the greatest asset. No one knows this better than the president-elect," Britten said.

Elimination of the time clause would give the United States a paper navy and give no assurance that American cruisers will ever be built, he said.

50 MILE GALE RAGES ALONG COASTAL REGION

NORWEGIAN STEAMER FERNLANE HELPLESS WITH A BROKEN RUDDER

New York, Jan. 28.—(UP) — A fifty-mile gale, carrying snow and sleet, raged off the New England coast today as two coast guard cutters struggled to the rescue of the British freighter Silver Maple, one of five ships in distress. The imperiled vessels have nearly 150 men aboard.

Hope has been abandoned in some quarters for one of the ships — the fishing trawler Seiner—but it was hoped that the others could be reached in time to prevent loss of life. The Seiner carried a crew of 20 men and now is believed to have gone down with all hands.

Other vessels which had been unheard from after sending distress calls were:

The Italian freighter Capo Vado, with a crew of about 25 men, in distress about 1,000 miles east of the Bermuda Islands.

The Norwegian steamer Fernlane, helpless with a broken rudder 500 miles southeast of Bermuda. She carried about 30 men.

The American freighter Dixiano, aground on the south coast of Cuba. She had a crew of about 25 men but was believed not in great danger.

The cutters Tampa and Mojave were attempting to reach the Silver Maple, whose position was given as 780 miles east of Boston. There were 40 men aboard the freighter. The vessel called for help Saturday and had not been heard from since.

The cutters, in reporting the new gale which was whipping across the north Atlantic, stated they would not be able to reach the Silver Mape's position until early tomorrow.

Several ships reported changing their positions and going to the aid of the Capo Gado and Fernlane, but no word regarding the progress of the search was received.

Many Problems Confront Legislature As It Moves Into 3rd Week of Its 90 Days Session

CONFRONTED BY TWO INQUIRIES INTO BIG THREE

COMMISSION IS ATTACKED BY DAD'S ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE PROBES CONDITIONS AT STATE INSTITUTIONS

By HECTOR PERRIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—Confronted by two inquiries into the administration of the Big Three and faced with at least a half dozen problems of prime importance, the 1929 Minnesota legislature today moved into the third week of its 90-day session.

Already under the microscope of the senate finance committee in connection with reportedly crowded conditions at state institutions, the commission of administration and finance was attacked by the Dad's Association of the Minnesota University because of its alleged domination over university affairs.

The executive committee of the Dad's Association — an organized group of 8,000 fathers — called a meeting at 11 A. M. today and requested that Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, university chancellor, be in attendance.

"Renewal of the efforts of the Big Three to control the University of Minnesota and the virulent attacks upon the integrity of the regents made by the commission of administration and finance," the committee declared, "has created a situation which calls for the immediate investigation by the fathers of the students now attending the University."

G. A. Polley, Winona; A. A. Horton, Fairmont; Ray S. Huey, Duluth; Myron McMillan, St. Paul, and Harold Harrison, A. D. Rahn and J. M. Grill, Minneapolis, form the executive committee.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee was expected to continue its probe into conditions at state institutions. During last week's hearings members of the board of control reported that several of the institutions were overcrowded, in some cases to such an extent that children slept double in a single bed in the home at Owatonna; that additional cottages were necessary for the epileptic colony at Cambridge, a gymnasium was needed at the state school for the deaf at Faribault, and that several hundred patients committed to the state were still outside the state institutions.

The board members attempted to make it clear that harmonious relations existed between itself and the Big Three but nevertheless the commission was reluctant to recommend buildings which the board considered necessary.

The committee, led by Senators A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, chairman; J. D. Sullivan, St. Cloud, and Chris Rosenmeier, Little Falls, is expected to report out appropriations bills quite at variance with the recommendations of the Big Three.

Important bills expected to come up before the legislature in the immediate future include the proposed reduction of iron ore taxes; highway proposals; tax relief for Beltrami and Lake of the Woods counties; state taxation of national banks; anti-loan shark bill and metropolitan sewage disposal.

The ore tax reduction and highway proposals are almost sure to cause sharp breaks in the legislature. Southern Minnesota members will undoubtedly line up against northern members on the tax bill and proponents of a gasoline tax increase against proponents of county reimbursement bonds on the highway measures.

St. Paul, Jan. 28. — Prohibitive taxation on the iron ore industry in northern Minnesota, may like the fable of old, kill the "goose that laid the golden egg," Fred D. Vibert, Duluth, warned a legislative interim committee here today.

In the open hearing conducted by the house interim committee on local indebtedness taxation and finance, the secretary of the Minnesota Arrowhead Association declared that unfair iron ore taxation would drive out of the state "an industry which has poured millions of dollars annually into the state's coffers."

Vibert pointed out that the importation of ore from Cuba, Chile and other countries, coupled with high taxes, seriously threatened the extinction of the mining industry.

The Duluthian explained that unless the state permitted the mining companies to remove the low grade ore at a fair profit, that ore would be left in the ground after the high quality ore had been taken out.

The hearing today was a continuation of the interim committee's study last summer in a trip through the iron range.

HURL CHARGES AT SHERIFF OTTESON, FREEBORN COUNTY

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Governor Theodore Christianson today was requested by citizens of Freeborn county to remove Sheriff James B. Otteson from office.

In a petition filed in the governor's office 25 citizens of the southern Minnesota county charged the Albert Lea officer with a half dozen offenses ranging from bribery to extortion.

The sheriff was specifically charged with having permitted prisoners of the county jail to take "vacations" at the nominal charge of $1 a day and in one instance with having allowed a prisoner to leave the county permanently.

Another time, the petition charged, Sheriff Otteson provided a former prisoner, Carl Hambly, with a gun and that Hambly with the sheriff's son, Mervin, went into Mower county and obtained a bribe of $300 from John Freund which was later divided between the three.

Other charges included the following:

That Sheriff Otteson was once called to Manchester to arrest a drunken driver and that although the motorist's automobile contained liquor he was released upon a bribe of $250.

That the sheriff often took prisoners out of the jail on trips and some of them were permitted to go into Iowa.

That he allowed liquor to be transported across the county.

That he permitted alleged deputy sheriffs to serve papers with the result that many chattel mortgage foreclosures and default judgments are questionable at law.

THREATS AND WORRIES BESET ADMINISTRATION

HOPE TO SAVE IT FROM A LAST MINUTE JAM IN THE LEGISLATURE

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Jan. 28.—The cruiser bill is expected to pass the senate before Wednesday despite threats and worries which have beset administration leaders steering its course through congress.

It is the one remaining point in the administration's legislative program which administrators in congress have decided must be saved from the expected last minute jam usually corrupting the closing days of a short session. They expect to pass the cruiser bill without even the change suggested by President Coolidge for delay in construction.

The measure then will be sent to the house for ratification of the changes made by the senate. The house passed the measure a year ago.

The changes involve the Borah amendment recommending an international conference for codification of maritime law and a restriction requiring the secretary of navy to construct the 15 new cruisers in government navy yards. House leaders expect to pass upon them without sending them to conference.

Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee said Mr. Hoover recently left the impression with him that the president-elect desires a navy second to none in power and efficiency and a navy commensurate with our world commercial and political position.

"I am sure the time limit will be pleasing to Mr. Hoover," the Britten statement said.

If their plans carry through, the only disturbing issue will remain to be settled before congress adjourns March 4 to make way for a special session of the new Hoover congress. This issue is the first deficiency appropriation bill carrying $24,000,000 more for prohibition enforcement than was provided last year.

The conferees have indicated they would like to kill the increase if they can. The matter will come up in the house shortly when decision will be made as to what instructions should be given the house conferees.

These two matters are the only issues of national importance which administration leaders plan to handle before adjournment.

Farm relief and tariff revision will remain for the special session.

Only the vital appropriation bills for the government departments need be passed before the Hoover inauguration.

Washington, Jan. 28. — Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee today reiterated his stand that he believed Hoover favored retention of the time clause in the pending cruiser bill.

"A first class navy means steel ships, not paper ones," Britten said. "Mr. Hoover in our recent conversation strongly indicated he was for a strong navy and this gave me the impression and left me to believe he favored the time clause.

"Every big navy advocate is in favor of the time limit as the one and only assurance for speedy building of ships to round out the fleet in its peace time maneuvers.

"At the present moment the American navy is in two fleets off Panama. In both of these, in war play for the protection of the canal, small destroyers and obsolete cruisers are taking places which should be occupied by modern cruisers.

"This is a handicap to officers and men who should now be maneuvering 10,000 ton cruisers. This serious drawback to the fleet will be in existence until modern cruisers are supplied by the bill now pending in the senate.

"For protection and prestige of American commerce the world over modern cruisers are the greatest asset. No one knows this better than the president-elect," Britten said.

Elimination of the time clause would give the United States a paper navy and give no assurance that American cruisers will ever be built, he said.

Substantial Reductions

DODGE BROTHERS SENIOR

WHEN THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six was announced, at the beginning of the new year, at prices so low as to overshadow any previous Dodge Brothers accomplishment, its universal public acceptance marked a new peak of popularity even for Dodge Brothers cars.

Public recognition was quickly translated into an unprecedented sales volume with an attendant increase in manufacturing efficiency and economy which now favorably affects its companion car—the Dodge Brothers Senior—and permits substantial reductions in the prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models.

The new lower prices at which the Dodge Brothers Senior henceforth will be sold are directly traceable to the established Chrysler policy of giving the public immediate benefit of every economy due to more efficient manufacturing methods, lower overhead costs and savings effected by the great unified purchasing power of Chrysler Motors.

Not only are these savings now passed on to the public in the form of much lower prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models, but the cars themselves have been made still better.

Examine the Dodge Brothers Senior in your most critical mood. Scrutinize each small detail. Be most exacting in your inspection. For once you have subjected the Chrysler-built Dodge Brothers Senior to your most diligent and careful inspection you are certain to realize that never before has a car so large, so handsome and so fine been available at so low a price.

NEW LOWER PRICES: NOW $1495 to $1595, F. O. B. DETROIT

81-YEAR-OLD ZUMBROTA MAN IS JAILED

HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGES, 60-YEAR-OLD CRONY IS DEAD

CHARGED AS RESULT OF ALLEGED DRINKING PARTY SATURDAY NIGHT

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—An 81-year-old Zumbrota man was in jail here today on liquor charges and his 60-year-old crony was dead as the result of an alleged drinking party Saturday night.

Engelbret Ellefson was ordered committed to the Goodhue county jail for three months after the body of Ole Voldun, a friend, was found in his home.

An autopsy performed upon Voldun's body, revealed, it was said, that death had been due to acute alcoholism and heart disease. A search of Ellefson's home revealed a quart of liquor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson entertained at their home, 319 North 9th street Saturday evening at five hundred. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nelson won high honors. Consolation prizes went to Mrs. Carbine and Mr. Preston. After cards lunch was served.

Club Dance Well Attended

The Married Peoples Amusement club dance was well attended Saturday evening in spite of the cold. All enjoyed a pleasant evening. The next meeting of the club will be held next Saturday evening.

Announcing

Substantial Reductions

in the prices of the

DODGE BROTHERS SENIOR

WHEN THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six was announced, at the beginning of the new year, at prices so low as to overshadow any previous Dodge Brothers accomplishment, its universal public acceptance marked a new peak of popularity even for Dodge Brothers cars.

Public recognition was quickly translated into an unprecedented sales volume with an attendant increase in manufacturing efficiency and economy which now favorably affects its companion car—the Dodge Brothers Senior—and permits substantial reductions in the prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models.

The new lower prices at which the Dodge Brothers Senior henceforth will be sold are directly traceable to the established Chrysler policy of giving the public immediate benefit of every economy due to more efficient manufacturing methods, lower overhead costs and savings effected by the great unified purchasing power of Chrysler Motors.

Not only are these savings now passed on to the public in the form of much lower prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models, but the cars themselves have been made still better.

Examine the Dodge Brothers Senior in your most critical mood. Scrutinize each small detail. Be most exacting in your inspection. For once you have subjected the Chrysler-built Dodge Brothers Senior to your most diligent and careful inspection you are certain to realize that never before has a car so large, so handsome and so fine been available at so low a price.

NEW LOWER PRICES: NOW $1495 to $1595, F. O. B. DETROIT

REV. C. C. BEATTY IS EVANGELIST

Begins Series of Meetings at Full Gospel Assembly Church

STARTS TUESDAY EVENING

Speaker Has Been Railway and Business Man, Once Head of Duluth Bethel

Rev. C. C. Beatty who is to begin a series of evangelistic meetings at the Full Gospel Assembly, ½ A street Northeast tomorrow evening, January 29, was in his younger days a railroad man, having at one time been a train dispatcher on the old Wisconsin Central road, which is now a part of the Soo line.

From the railroad service, Mr. Beatty entered the newspaper field, becoming publisher and editor of the Davenport, Fla., Messenger and then later took charge of a banking institution as manager and cashier.

Rev. C. C. Beatty

After several years of a successful business career, Mr. Beatty felt the call to the ministry and after making preparation he entered the evangelistic field, which calling he pursued until 10 years ago, when he was appointed to head the Duluth Bethel society enterprise with its varied program of rescue work. This society maintains several institutions in Duluth, among them being the oldest and largest rescue mission for men in the northwest. In this home hundreds of homeless men were sheltered. There is also a home for unfortunate girls and women and nameless children; also family welfare work, a sort of community center movement.

Rev. Beatty again feeling the call to more extensive evangelism, recently severed his connection with the Duluth society to enter the evangelistic field. With his varied experience he is prepared to help solve the most difficult problems and he has a message that will be helpful to all.

Mr. Beatty preaches what he declares is the old time Gospel that has power to save from sin and make one a new creation in Christ Jesus.

RESIDENT 45 YEARS VICTIM OF ILLNESS

Charles Irwin, 62, Passed Away at St. Paul From Lobar Pneumonia

WAS MACHINIST AT N. P.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow Afternoon; Leaves Four Daughters, One Son

Charles Irwin, 62 years old, Brainerd resident for 45 years, died Saturday after a week's illness with lobar pneumonia at the N. P. B. A. hospital, St. Paul.

Born in Portadoun, Ireland, on September 25, 1867, Mr. Irwin came to the United States and directly to Brainerd at the age of 17 years. He was employed as a machinist at the Northern Pacific shops during his entire life here.

In 1897 he was married to Miss Louise Dennis who predeceased him 14 years ago.

Mr. Irwin had maintained his residence at 211 Second avenue N. E. since his marriage. He was known as a home loving man, devoted to his family, and a conscientious employee of the Northern Pacific.

Surviving are four daughters, Miss Maude Irwin, Mrs. Clarence Rappel, Mrs. William Cossette, Brainerd, Mrs. Elmer Erickson, St. Cloud, one son, George D. Irwin, Minneapolis, three grandchildren, Donnette Irwin, Wayne and Dean Erickson, two brothers in Canada and relatives in Belfast, Ireland.

Mr. Irwin was a member of the A. O. U. W. and the Eagles.

The funeral will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home and at 2:30 o'clock from the St. Paul's Episcopal church. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

The remains may be viewed at the home up to this time of the funeral.

Christ Olson, 70, Passed Away Saturday Afternoon After Year's Illness

FUNERAL TOMORROW

Leaves Widow and Four Daughters; Son Died in France During World War

Christ Olson passed away at 2:15 p. m. Saturday at his home, 1616 Norwood street at the age of 70 years. Health began to fail Mr. Olson about one and a half years ago, he being confined to his bed last October with anaemia from which he failed to recover.

Mr. Olson was born November 11, 1858 in Gulbransbalen, Norway. In 1880 he came to the United States settling in Brainerd. During the same year he was united in marriage to Miss Randi Bringleson. Four girls and three boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Olson. Two of the boys died in infancy and Edward Olson died in France during the World war at the age of 30 years. He was a member of the 88th division of the 313 Engineering Corps.

Besides his widow, four daughters survive, Mrs. A. G. Anderson, Brainerd, Mrs. A. M. Jackson, Crow Wing, Mrs. R. H. Jones of Minneapolis, Mrs. G. G. Holmstrom, of Willow Springs, Missouri, also five grandchildren, other relatives and numerous friends who fondly cherish his memory.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and from the Seventh Day Adventist church, 1009 South 7th street at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery. Rev. Emil G. Sauer will officiate.

LEGISLATURE SHOULD ACT PROMPTLY

THE legislature should get a move on itself and settle the matter of state highway finances without delay, says the Long Prairie Leader editorially.

Every day's delay costs the people who travel the roads a good deal of money.

Right now is the time the Highway Department ought to be going full speed with its plans and arrangements for 1929 road work. It can do little or nothing until it knows what to depend on in the way of finances.

At the present time all the Highway Department knows for certain is that the gas tax diversion is going to take away upwards of two million dollars of its income and that it has 14 million dollars of county road bonds to pay soon.

With less money with which to work and an enormous bond payment to be met, a bond expenditure which it did not make but the payment of which was loaded onto it, the Highway Department can do little else than mark time these days waiting for the legislature to act.

This is a very serious state of affairs and costs the people of the state much money.

More and more cars are being sold. More and more roads will be broken down next summer and right now when the Department ought to have its entire organization running in "high" with preparations for the 1929 season, it has to mark time waiting to see what the legislature is going to do.

Contracts for new construction can not be made while there is uncertainty about funds. Unless contracts are made soon, no great amount of work can be done in 1929. If the program is halted to any considerable extent for the one year period, it will take additional millions of dollars to make up the loss caused by traffic getting ahead of construction.

There is every reason why the legislature should sit up nights a little bit at this time to rush through the action it proposes to take on Highway finance matters.

There is no good reason why the whole matter cannot be decided and settled by February 1. Without doubt the legislators know what the people at home desire them to do and have their own minds more or less made up. So get busy and by prompt action save the state a lot of money.

The Highway Department is entitled to know and to know without delay what the condition of its finances is to be.

PUTTING THE MOVIE IN THE SCHOOLS

FOR a number of years educators and moving picture officials have talked about using the movie as a means of education. At last the thing is going to be tried out on a large scale, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

For a number of years Yale University has been making movie films depicting dramatic moments in American history, ranging in point of time from 1492 to 1865. It has had the assistance of history professors from other universities, and has taken extreme pains to make its films historically accurate.

Now arrangements have been made with universities and departments of education in 20 states to use these films in visual education in the public schools. Complete sets of the films have been sent to the states involved, to be sent around through every public school. In addition, it is planned to form adult education centers in various cities, where the films can be shown for grown-ups.

It is predicted that over 2500 communities will be using the films this winter.

In taking this step Yale is doing the cause of American education a vast service. The possibilities of this method of education seem almost limitless; unless the experiment develops unforseen defects, it may be that this will prove the beginning of an entirely new system of teaching.

Imagine the eagerness with which children would go to a school where moving pictures were a chief part of the curriculum! Lessons that now are all too often merely boresome would be looked forward to by the youngsters with keen anticipation. And the facts would stick. A child who learned his history from moving pictures instead of books would remember it.

The thing has limitless possibilities. Geography, elementary science and other things could be taught that way as well as history. It is quite possible that this action of Yale's may mark an epoch in American educational methods.

SEEK TO REVISE PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX LIST

TENS of thousands of names will be added to Minnesota personal property tax lists if a bill introduced in the house becomes a law. It will also raise taxes of all personal property taxpayers among the householder class.

The bill, introduced by Representatives Arvic, Dorset; Merritt of Aitkn; Odegaard of Clear Lake; Therren of Pine City and Lewis of Long Prairie, seeks to eliminate the present $100 exemption to householders on personal property valuations which has been the law in Minnesota for 50 or more years.

While the state tax commissioner has no available statistics with reference to the number of persons paying no personal tax because of the exemption, on household goods, it was declared the passage of the bill would undoubtedly place untold additional thousands on the personal property tax records of the state.

SEES EARLY SPRING

A MILACA citizen, renowned as a weather prophet, whose predictions have scored many direct hits, a pioneer named A. C. Wilkes, says we are to have an early spring.

It is pleasing to see this ray of hope around the corner when January has been one of the coldest months in winter, with the thermometer generally away below zero every night. Wilkes' statement for 1929 is that the months of January and February and the first 10 days in March will bring normal temperatures with no unusual winter weather, but that after March 10 the weather will turn warm and continue so through April.

Mr. Wilkes recalls that Minnesota had an open winter just 50 years ago, much as the present winter has been to date, and he says usually an open winter is followed by two more open winters.

Hero of the Latest Sea Drama

Never a false move does Captain George Fried make in an emergency. No sooner had he been apprised of the location of the S. S. Florida, in distress off the Virginia Capes, than the hero of the Antinoe disaster, shown above with Mrs. Fried, gave the orders that sent the S. S. America racing at top speed to the doomed vessel's assistance.

Where Heroic Rescue Took Place

The above map shows position in which S. S. Florida hoondered helplessly when the liner America arrived to rescue despairing crew. Thirty-two officers and men were taken off under direction of Captain George Fried, hero of the Antinoe rescue.

Navy's Colorful "Suicide Squadron" at Best in Great Air Film

Navy planes in thrilling gyrations and sensational feats in the clouds, a glorious love story told to an accompaniment of the throb of hundreds of planes in a great adventure, all are in "The Flying Fleet," Ramon Novarro's new starring film which will be at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Tuesday.

The play is a vivid and intimate "inside" view of life with the aviators in the navy, flying in battle practice, and aboard the great airplane carrier ships. The thrills include some of the most desperate tricks of the air, by the navy's famous "suicide squadron." A wreck and rescue at sea in a transoceanic flight is another remarkable bit of photography.

Through the thrills runs a love story, and the record of a steadfast friendship of a group of young officers, who graduated together from Annapolis and follow the lanes of the air.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ADDRESS TONIGHT TO BE BROADCAST

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—President Coolidge's address tonight at the 16th regular meeting of the business organization of the government will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hookup.

The address of Budget Director Lord also will be broadcast.

Mr. Coolidge's address is scheduled to go on the air at about 6:45. The program by the U. S. Army band will open the broadcasting at 6:30.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Take a teaspoonful of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LEGISLATURE SHOULD ACT PROMPTLY

THE legislature should get a move on itself and settle the matter of state highway finances without delay, says the Long Prairie Leader editorially.

Every day's delay costs the people who travel the roads a good deal of money.

Right now is the time the Highway Department ought to be going full speed with its plans and arrangements for 1929 road work. It can do little or nothing until it knows what to depend on in the way of finances.

At the present time all the Highway Department knows for certain is that the gas tax diversion is going to take away upwards of two million dollars of its income and that it has 14 million dollars of county road bonds to pay soon.

With less money with which to work and an enormous bond payment to be met, a bond expenditure which it did not make but the payment of which was loaded onto it, the Highway Department can do little else than mark time these days waiting for the legislature to act.

This is a very serious state of affairs and costs the people of the state much money.

More and more cars are being sold. More and more roads will be broken down next summer and right now when the Department ought to have its entire organization running in "high" with preparations for the 1929 season, it has to mark time waiting to see what the legislature is going to do.

Contracts for new construction can not be made while there is uncertainty about funds. Unless contracts are made soon, no great amount of work can be done in 1929. If the program is halted to any considerable extent for the one year period, it will take additional millions of dollars to make up the loss caused by traffic getting ahead of construction.

There is every reason why the legislature should sit up nights a little bit at this time to rush through the action it proposes to take on Highway finance matters.

There is no good reason why the whole matter cannot be decided and settled by February 1. Without doubt the legislators know what the people at home desire them to do and have their own minds more or less made up. So get busy and by prompt action save the state a lot of money.

The Highway Department is entitled to know and to know without delay what the condition of its finances is to be.

PUTTING THE MOVIE IN THE SCHOOLS

FOR a number of years educators and moving picture officials have talked about using the movie as a means of education. At last the thing is going to be tried out on a large scale, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

For a number of years Yale University has been making movie films depicting dramatic moments in American history, ranging in point of time from 1492 to 1865. It has had the assistance of history professors from other universities, and has taken extreme pains to make its films historically accurate.

Now arrangements have been made with universities and departments of education in 20 states to use these films in visual education in the public schools. Complete sets of the films have been sent to the states involved, to be sent around through every public school. In addition, it is planned to form adult education centers in various cities, where the films can be shown for grown-ups.

It is predicted that over 2500 communities will be using the films this winter.

In taking this step Yale is doing the cause of American education a vast service. The possibilities of this method of education seem almost limitless; unless the experiment develops unforseen defects, it may be that this will prove the beginning of an entirely new system of teaching.

Imagine the eagerness with which children would go to a school where moving pictures were a chief part of the curriculum! Lessons that now are all too often merely boresome would be looked forward to by the youngsters with keen anticipation. And the facts would stick. A child who learned his history from moving pictures instead of books would remember it.

The thing has limitless possibilities. Geography, elementary science and other things could be taught that way as well as history. It is quite possible that this action of Yale's may mark an epoch in American educational methods.

SEEK TO REVISE PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX LIST

TENS of thousands of names will be added to Minnesota personal property tax lists if a bill introduced in the house becomes a law. It will also raise taxes of all personal property taxpayers among the householder class.

The bill, introduced by Representatives Arvic, Dorset; Merritt of Aitkn; Odegaard of Clear Lake; Therren of Pine City and Lewis of Long Prairie, seeks to eliminate the present $100 exemption to householders on personal property valuations which has been the law in Minnesota for 50 or more years.

While the state tax commissioner has no available statistics with reference to the number of persons paying no personal tax because of the exemption, on household goods, it was declared the passage of the bill would undoubtedly place untold additional thousands on the personal property tax records of the state.

Wilkes' statement for 1929 is that the months of January and February and the first 10 days in March will bring normal temperatures with no unusual winter weather, but that after March 10 the weather will turn warm and continue so through April.

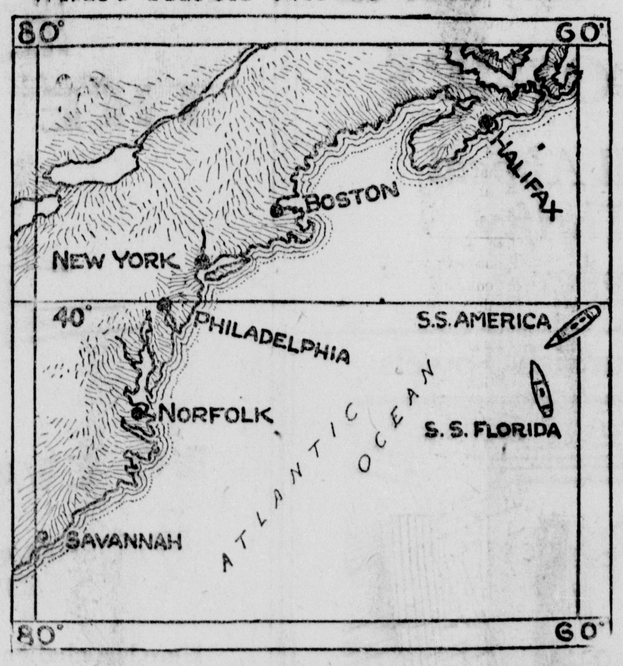

Mr. Wilkes recalls that Minnesota had an open winter just 50 years ago, much as the present winter has been to date, and he says usually an open winter is followed by two more open winters.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—President Coolidge's address tonight at the 16th regular meeting of the business organization of the government will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hookup.

The address of Budget Director Lord also will be broadcast.

Mr. Coolidge's address is scheduled to go on the air at about 6:45. The program by the U. S. Army band will open the broadcasting at 6:30.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Take a teaspoonful of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BRAINERD PUCK CHASERS NOSE OUT C.-I. ON SUNDAY

THRILL FOR FIGHT FANS IN THE NEWS

DEMPSEY'S VIVID PERSONALITY DOMINATES FLORIDA SPORTS SCENE

"JUST WANT TO KEEP IN SHAPE," SAYS EX-CHAMPION TO INQUIRERS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 28. — There's a thrill for fight fans in the news from Miami Beach that Jack Dempsey has started road work again.

For most fans, the activities of the ex-champion are of greater moment that the plans of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling for their heavyweight bout next month. Dempsey's vivid personality dominates the Florida sports scene.

"Just want to keep in shape," replied Jack in response to a query from the United Press today as to why he had begun once more the weary grind at daybreak, jogging along the sands with Jerry Luvadis, faithful little shadow, at his elbow.

"I'm just a promoter now," Jack insists; but what if an unforeseen development should call him into the ring as a principal?

It is true that Dempsey has no immediate designs upon the person of either Sharkey or Stribling, but it is an open secret that the former champion would dearly love to try accounts with Paulino Uzcudun, or some other slow-footed, dull-witted slugger with whom he could trade punches until one or the other dropped.

Jack probably does not intend to take his training too seriously for the time being, since he will find that the cares of a promoter increase in weight and manner as the date of a fight draws near.

Young Stribling has announced his intention of flying to Miami Beach from New Orleans on Wednesday.

"Come by train. Keep out of the air," Dempsey once more wired the Georgian.

Sharkey's trainer will arrive at the scene of next month's battle on Tuesday to arrange for training quarters for the Bostonian.

FOOTBALL RULES IN THE '70S SIMPLE

Vermont Alumnus Unearths Code of 54 Years Ago.

Back in the good old days of the '70s football was a much simpler proposition than at present. At the University of Vermont half a century ago the annual interclass football game had all the thrills without the rules of a modern set-to. Louis Shaw of the class of '74 unearthed a list of these old guides to gladitorial combat for use in the football arena.

The rules follow:

"The privilege of the first warn is to be decided by tossing up a cent or 5-cent piece, the side having the warn choosing their side of the field.

"The ball having been placed in position in the center of the field by the umpire, a touch by the warner constitutes a warn.

"The ball having been placed in position, all players excepting the warner are to remain on their respective sides at a distance of at least thirty (30) feet from the center of the field until the ball has been warned.

"After the ball has been warned, no player of the class having the warn is allowed to touch the ball until it has been touched by a member of the opposing class.

"Any player catching the ball on the fly is allowed to throw it with his hands, make a drop kick, or to carry it any distance within the boundaries of the field unless prevented by another player.

"No player is allowed to pick the ball from the ground or to catch it otherwise than on the fly.

"No player is allowed to kick the ball over the boundaries of the ground.

"In case of a violation of Rule 7 the ball is to be taken at a distance of thirty (30) feet from the spot of the last kick and in a direction directly toward the goal of the offending player. Each class will form a line, and the umpire will roll the ball between these lines. In case it cannot be proven by whom the ball was kicked across the boundary the clause relating to the distance to be lost shall be void.

"In case of any violation not above specified the offending party loses the warn."

JACKIE FIELDS MEETS McCARTHY, CHICAGO, TONIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 28. (U.P.)—Jackie Fields, rated by many as the outstanding contender for the welterweight title held by Joe Dundee, will get a further chance tonight to demonstrate his right to a bout with the champion.

Fields will meet Jack McCarthy, a Chicago boy who does very little leading but who is a master at counter fighting.

To Fields, the bout virtually is a last obstacle before a title bout. He won a decision from young Jack Thompson and he decisively defeated Sergeant Sammy Baker. Thompson previously had knocked out Dundee in a non-title bout here.

Dundee has done very little title fighting and now faces loss of his title in the National Boxing association states if he does not engage in a championship bout within sixty days.

MOLSTAD FINDS NET IN LAST MINUTE TO REALIZE A 2-1 WIN

TEAMS BATTLE ON EVEN TERMS THROUGHOUT MAJOR PORTION OF YESTERDAY'S GAME

SCORING POWER OF RED DEVILS HANDICAPPED THROUGH SICKNESS OF FLAATA

Molstad came through in the last minute of play yesterday to score the winning goal from Crosby-Ironton, bringing victory to the Brainerd Red Devils by the count of 2 to 1, on the range ice.

The two teams battled on even terms throughout the major part of the game.

Gabiou, right wing, found the C.-I. meshes in the first stanza. Bogan, defense man for C.-I., completed a dashing drive down the ice to sink the gutta percha in the local hemp near the close of the first quarter. The count remained even up until near the close of the game when Molstad scooped the rubber into the range net for the winning tally.

The locals lacked their usual scoring combination through the absence of Flaata, who was out of the game on account of illness.

Next Sunday's game will be played on Brainerd ice, with opponents either Little Falls or Crosby-Ironton.

The line-ups:

Referee—Graff.

Timekeeper—McIntosh.

MATERIAL FOR STOVE LEAGUES OF THE NATION

On Wednesday, Jan. 30, the Brainerd Dispatch will carry the first of a series of 16 daily baseball stories by George Kirksey of the United Press sports staff, telling fans about the changes in each major league club since the close of the 1928 season and analyzing the new lineups for 1929.

The first story will deal with the world's champions, the New York Yankees.

Nurmi has signified his intention of entering the meet, and Wide today made it known that he would enter the national championship for the purpose of winning the 2-mile championship.

RANGY ST. CLOUD TEAM PASSES WAY TO 28-17 VICTORY

PLAY ON EVEN TERMS WITH TECH-HIGH IN LAST HALF; DISPLAY POOR PASSING

A rangy St. Cloud team, known to the state as the Tech-Highs, staged a high passing game against Brainerd Saturday night that proved a decided factor in their 28 to 17 victory.

St. Cloud, playing Brainerd on the Roosevelt gym floor, St. Cloud, outplayed their rivals in the first half, chalking up a count of 20 to 7, but were unable to do much against the improved playing of the Brainerd boys in the last half.

The Granite City boys were on their toes not only in passing and floor plays but in their shooting. The ball had a phenomenal way of finding its way to the basket for scores when the St. Cloud boys directed their shots at the Brainerd basket in the first half.

The Brainerd team showed weakness in team work due to the lack of facilities for scrimmage.

The St. Cloud team has the earmarks of a sweet team this year. Had the Brainerd team of last year opposed them Saturday night a highly interesting game would have followed. Even as it was the Brainerd team forced the St. Cloud boys to give their best in order to insure a victory.

The locals journey to Wadena this Friday to engage in their first district conference game.

The Brainerd line-up Saturday follows: Wise, Swanson, forwards; Paine, center; Gabiou, Fuller, guards; Hautala, Geist, Foster, subs.

SEASONED TIMBER

A Future Champion?

By QUINN HALL.

No less an authority than Benny Leonard, who was cock of the walk in the lightweight ranks until he grew weary of boxing, is predicting that Al Singer, a youngster who is just turning from a featherweight to a junior lightweight, will within a year or so occupy the throne room of pugilism now under lease to Sammy Mandell.

Al recently boxed a draw with Tony Canzoneri, who used to rule the featherweights before he was slugged into the background by Andre Routis, the French elbow fighter. Some of the experts figured that Canzoneri would be softened up following the Routis body punching and that Singer would take the Brooklyn lad to the cleaners, but Tony still sparkled as a pretty nifty boxer and the Singer management was glad to have Al get a draw. Right after that set-to Singer was offered a March date with Routis but he turned down a crack at the featherweight title because of the fact that he is still in his growing stages and did not want to jeopardize his future by forcing himself to make weight for the Frenchman.

Right there Al proved that he is also a smart youngster in addition to being clever with his dukes. A lot of boys would have leaped at a chance for a titular go so early in their career, but the Bronx beak-buster figures that he isn't going to get all excited about annexing any titles until he is sure he can make the weight without cutting off an arm every time he defends his tiara. In other words, Singer feels sure that he will eventually pick himself off a title, but when he does he wants to know that it will be in a division which he isn't likely to outgrow overnight.

It may, as Leonard predicts, be the lightweight division over which young Singer eventually will rule but it would seem that if this is to be accomplished within a year or so Al is going to be as busy as a guy giving away free samples of ice cream at a Fourth of July picnic.

There are a lot of hard nuts to crack on the way up to the lightweight throne, and despite the fact that Singer is a well-versed scrapper and is tabbed as a comer by most of the wise ones who have seen him in action, he may encounter some difficulty before he lifts the brown derby off the head of Mandell—or whoever happens to be wearing it at the time. The Bronx boy is ready to make his bid for top honors.

Singer, who will be fighting mostly as a junior lightweight from now on, will likely skim through the division bossed by Tod Morgan without making any serious attempts to lift the title. But when he blossoms out as a full-fledged lightweight the fireworks are sure to commence. Baby Face McLarnin has outgrown this poundage but there are other clever scrappers who'll have to be mowed down before Al can hope to get a chance at the title. Naturally Ray Miller, the fellow who made McLarnin say "uncle" after the baby-faced one had toppled over most of the good lightweights, will be one of the chief stumbling blocks in Al's path—if by that time Miller hasn't taken the present champ, Mandell. Sammy, however, eluded the blows of the clever McLarnin and the sleek-haired king from Rockford is likely still to be topping the lists when Singer gets up that far. And Mandell is a clever manipulator of the over-stuffed mittens.

However, someone is sure to take him sooner or later and it may be Singer. The Bronx lad has a couple of active maulies with dynamite in either fist. He's shifty on his pins and he's a real comer.

THRILL FOR FIGHT FANS IN THE NEWS

DEMPSEY'S VIVID PERSONALITY DOMINATES FLORIDA SPORTS SCENE

"JUST WANT TO KEEP IN SHAPE," SAYS EX-CHAMPION TO INQUIRERS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 28. — There's a thrill for fight fans in the news from Miami Beach that Jack Dempsey has started road work again.

For most fans, the activities of the ex-champion are of greater moment that the plans of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling for their heavyweight bout next month. Dempsey's vivid personality dominates the Florida sports scene.

"Just want to keep in shape," replied Jack in response to a query from the United Press today as to why he had begun once more the weary grind at daybreak, jogging along the sands with Jerry Luvadis, faithful little shadow, at his elbow.

"I'm just a promoter now," Jack insists; but what if an unforeseen development should call him into the ring as a principal?

It is true that Dempsey has no immediate designs upon the person of either Sharkey or Stribling, but it is an open secret that the former champion would dearly love to try accounts with Paulino Uzcudun, or some other slow-footed, dull-witted slugger with whom he could trade punches until one or the other dropped.

Jack probably does not intend to take his training too seriously for the time being, since he will find that the cares of a promoter increase in weight and manner as the date of a fight draws near.

Young Stribling has announced his intention of flying to Miami Beach from New Orleans on Wednesday.

"Come by train. Keep out of the air," Dempsey once more wired the Georgian.

FOOTBALL RULES IN THE '70S SIMPLE

Vermont Alumnus Unearths Code of 54 Years Ago.

Back in the good old days of the '70s football was a much simpler proposition than at present. At the University of Vermont half a century ago the annual interclass football game had all the thrills without the rules of a modern set-to. Louis Shaw of the class of '74 unearthed a list of these old guides to gladitorial combat for use in the football arena.

The rules follow:

"The privilege of the first warn is to be decided by tossing up a cent or 5-cent piece, the side having the warn choosing their side of the field.

"The ball having been placed in position in the center of the field by the umpire, a touch by the warner constitutes a warn.

"The ball having been placed in position, all players excepting the warner are to remain on their respective sides at a distance of at least thirty (30) feet from the center of the field until the ball has been warned.

"After the ball has been warned, no player of the class having the warn is allowed to touch the ball until it has been touched by a member of the opposing class.

"Any player catching the ball on the fly is allowed to throw it with his hands, make a drop kick, or to carry it any distance within the boundaries of the field unless prevented by another player.

"No player is allowed to pick the ball from the ground or to catch it otherwise than on the fly.

"No player is allowed to kick the ball over the boundaries of the ground.

"In case of a violation of Rule 7 the ball is to be taken at a distance of thirty (30) feet from the spot of the last kick and in a direction directly toward the goal of the offending player. Each class will form a line, and the umpire will roll the ball between these lines. In case it cannot be proven by whom the ball was kicked across the boundary the clause relating to the distance to be lost shall be void.

"In case of any violation not above specified the offending party loses the warn."

BRAINERD PUCK CHASERS NOSE OUT C.-I. ON SUNDAY

JACKIE FIELDS MEETS McCARTHY, CHICAGO, TONIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Jackie Fields, rated by many as the outstanding contender for the welterweight title held by Joe Dundee, will get a further chance tonight to demonstrate his right to a bout with the champion.

Fields will meet Jack McCarthy, a Chicago boy who does very little leading but who is a master at counter fighting.

To Fields, the bout virtually is a last obstacle before a title bout. He won a decision from young Jack Thompson and he decisively defeated Sergeant Sammy Baker. Thompson previously had knocked out Dundee in a non-title bout here.

Dundee has done very little title fighting and now faces loss of his title in the National Boxing association states if he does not engage in a championship bout within sixty days.

MOLSTAD FINDS NET IN LAST MINUTE TO REALIZE A 2-1 WIN

TEAMS BATTLE ON EVEN TERMS THROUGHOUT MAJOR PORTION OF YESTERDAY'S GAME

SCORING POWER OF RED DEVILS HANDICAPPED THROUGH SICKNESS OF FLAATA

Molstad came through in the last minute of play yesterday to score the winning goal from Crosby-Ironton, bringing victory to the Brainerd Red Devils by the count of 2 to 1, on the range ice.

The two teams battled on even terms throughout the major part of the game.

Gabiou, right wing, found the C.-I. meshes in the first stanza. Bogan, defense man for C.-I., completed a dashing drive down the ice to sink the gutta percha in the local hemp near the close of the first quarter. The count remained even up until near the close of the game when Molstad scooped the rubber into the range net for the winning tally.

The locals lacked their usual scoring combination through the absence of Flaata, who was out of the game on account of illness.

Next Sunday's game will be played on Brainerd ice, with opponents either Little Falls or Crosby-Ironton.

The line-ups:

Referee—Graff.

Timekeeper—McIntosh.

MATERIAL FOR STOVE LEAGUES OF THE NATION

On Wednesday, Jan. 30, the Brainerd Dispatch will carry the first of a series of 16 daily baseball stories by George Kirksey of the United Press sports staff, telling fans about the changes in each major league club since the close of the 1928 season and analyzing the new lineups for 1929.

The first story will deal with the world's champions, the New York Yankees.

NURMI AND WIDE MAY ENTER GARDEN RACES OF FEB. 23

New York, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—A meeting between Paavo Nurmi, the flying Finn, and Edvin Wide, the Swedish schoolmaster, at two miles seems likely for the national indoor track and field championships in Madison Square Garden February 23. Nurmi has signified his intention of entering the meet, and Wide today made it known that he would enter the national championship for the purpose of winning the 2-mile championship.

RANGY ST. CLOUD TEAM PASSES WAY TO 28-17 VICTORY

PLAY ON EVEN TERMS WITH TECH-HIGH IN LAST HALF; DISPLAY POOR PASSING

A rangy St. Cloud team, known to the state as the Tech-Highs, staged a high passing game against Brainerd Saturday night that proved a decided factor in their 28 to 17 victory.

St. Cloud, playing Brainerd on the Roosevelt gym floor, St. Cloud, outplayed their rivals in the first half, chalking up a count of 20 to 7, but were unable to do much against the improved playing of the Brainerd boys in the last half.

The Granite City boys were on their toes not only in passing and floor plays but in their shooting. The ball had a phenomenal way of finding its way to the basket for scores when the St. Cloud boys directed their shots at the Brainerd basket in the first half.

The Brainerd team showed weakness in team work due to the lack of facilities for scrimmage.

The St. Cloud team has the earmarks of a sweet team this year. Had the Brainerd team of last year opposed them Saturday night a highly interesting game would have followed. Even as it was the Brainerd team forced the St. Cloud boys to give their best in order to insure a victory.

Fuller and Wise teamed up for the heaviest part of Brainerd's scoring.

The locals journey to Wadena this Friday to engage in their first district conference game.

The Brainerd line-up Saturday follows: Wise, Swanson, forwards; Paine, center; Gabiou, Fuller, guards; Hautala, Geist, Foster, subs.

A Future Champion?

By QUINN HALL.

No less an authority than Benny Leonard, who was cock of the walk in the lightweight ranks until he grew weary of boxing, is predicting that Al Singer, a youngster who is just turning from a featherweight to a junior lightweight, will within a year or so occupy the throne room of pugilism now under lease to Sammy Mandell.

Al recently boxed a draw with Tony Canzoneri, who used to rule the featherweights before he was slugged into the background by Andre Routis, the French elbow fighter. Some of the experts figured that Canzoneri would be softened up following the Routis body punching and that Singer would take the Brooklyn lad to the cleaners, but Tony still sparkled as a pretty nifty boxer and the Singer management was glad to have Al get a draw. Right after that set-to Singer was offered a March date with Routis but he turned down a crack at the featherweight title because of the fact that he is still in his growing stages and did not want to jeopardize his future by forcing himself to make weight for the Frenchman.

Right there Al proved that he is also a smart youngster in addition to being clever with his dukes. A lot of boys would have leaped at a chance for a titular go so early in their career, but the Bronx beak-buster figures that he isn't going to get all excited about annexing any titles until he is sure he can make the weight without cutting off an arm every time he defends his tiara. In other words, Singer feels sure that he will eventually pick himself off a title, but when he does he wants to know that it will be in a division which he isn't likely to outgrow overnight.

It may, as Leonard predicts, be the lightweight division over which young Singer eventually will rule but it would seem that if this is to be accomplished within a year or so Al is going to be as busy as a guy giving away free samples of ice cream at a Fourth of July picnic.

There are a lot of hard nuts to crack on the way up to the lightweight throne, and despite the fact that Singer is a well-versed scrapper and is tabbed as a comer by most of the wise ones who have seen him in action, he may encounter some difficulty before he lifts the brown derby off the head of Mandell—or whoever happens to be wearing it at the time. The Bronx boy is ready to make his bid for top honors.

Singer, who will be fighting mostly as a junior lightweight from now on, will likely skim through the division bossed by Tod Morgan without making any serious attempts to lift the title. But when he blossoms out as a full-fledged lightweight the fireworks are sure to commence. Baby Face McLarnin has outgrown this poundage but there are other clever scrappers who'll have to be mowed down before Al can hope to get a chance at the title. Naturally Ray Miller, the fellow who made McLarnin say "uncle" after the baby-faced one had toppled over most of the good lightweights, will be one of the chief stumbling blocks in Al's path—if by that time Miller hasn't taken the present champ, Mandell. Hoovers Reach Belle Isle Retreat

Some One, Some Day

By A. W. PEACH

(Copyright.)

IRMA raced from the gate to the vine-clad porch where her invalid mother was busy with her knitting.

"Mother, what do you think? Uncle Ren did remember us. Here's a letter from his lawyers, saying that he left us $50,000 in cash, that the money had been forwarded to our local bank, and—well—now—"

Her mother laughed at the long sigh that followed the "now." "Now, Dark Eyes, I suppose you will want to be doing missionary work with it. Ren never liked us, but I guess he thought better of his family as he grew older. What are you going to do with it?"

Irma looked into her mother's twinkling eyes. "Well, with this and what father left us, I guess we won't worry any more; and then—and then—mother dear, I'm going to give Mrs. Jameson enough to have Bobby operated on, and I'm going to buy that home for old Mr. and Mrs. Peebles, and—"

'Gracious, child, get your breath! I hope you will do happy things with what we don't need, and our needs are not luxurious. We—here comes Del Stewart!" Her mother added, looking up the walk.

Irma went to meet him, a little of the happiness of her plans going from her face. Stewart was a persistent suitor almost to the point of being annoying; but he was regarded in the village as a good catch for any girl, and the village had been unable to understand why Irma had not accepted him. As a matter of fact, she had been on the verge of doing so, but always the realization that she did not love him as she wanted to love some one some day held her back.

She told him the good news, but he did not seem in any sense overjoyed by the information. She guessed the reason. The son of the richest family in the village, he had made her realize what he could do for her and her mother. In dark moments that thought had tempted her—but only for moments.

The next week she proceeded to make a few dreams come true. Mr. Peebles, limping home from work, found the deed to his home waiting for him in his wife's trembling hands. The old people wept softly in each other's arms, and then went slowly down the street together to the Raines cottage. The little Jameson boy, his pale face alight with hope that he was going to be made like other boys, went with his mother to the great city.

Then out of the clear sky came the word that left Irma almost fainting—a letter from the western firm of lawyers, telling her to cease drawing on the $50,000, that a later will had been discovered in which the money had been left to Mr. Starr Kingston, a friend of her uncle; that a representative would see her about the matter.

She was at her wits' end. "What shall I do? What shall I do?" was the bitter question she faced. She had spent the money for things that could not be returned. She might take the little money in her mother's name—and that would mean poverty for them.

In desperation she told Stewart. He smiled. "Marry me, Irma, and I'll take care of the whole thing," was his solution.

She looked at him with frightened eyes, and started to offer herself, for the gateway he mentioned seemed the only one. Just as his greedy eyes were growing triumphant, the doorbell rang and Irma had to go.

At the door she found a tall, clean-cut young man, and looked up into gray, pleasant eyes. She guessed who he was. "You are from Stetson & Stetson?" she asked fearfully.

He nodded. "Yes, I am here to explain the situation and arrange for the return of the money. It is very unfortunate."

Stewart was forgotten, as, her mind in a whirl, Irma led the tall lawyer into the cottage living room and began the terrible explanation.

He listened quietly, then said, "I would like to see Mr. Peebles' home and the Jameson [illegible], just what you have done."

He came the next day and she told him what she had done. The day drew into a week. Evenings found him at her house, a part of the little circle of home life. Under the quiet friendliness of his ways Irma almost forgot the tragic import of his errand. Then came the evening when he announced his departure. That night in the quiet of her room Irma saw with a soul's clear vision that in him she had found the some one she could love some day. But tomorrow he would come, tomorrow he would suggest some arrangement for the return of the money she had used. Very quietly she came to her decision to marry Del Stewart.

The next afternoon the attorney came. He asked her to walk with him in the old-fashioned garden her mother loved. In the summer house he paused and took her hands. She looked up into his fine gray eyes—to start and tremble at what she saw there—something that sent a wild cry through her heart—"He loves me!"

"Irma, confession and apology shall come. First, however, let me say not a penny need be returned. You have used the money too beautifully. Second, I am a lawyer, but not a member of the Stetson firm. I am Starr Kingston. Last of all, I love you."

The next thing she knew she had evidence that it was no longer a matter of some one nor some day.

Tramping of Silage May Be Lost Motion

Farmers Find Untramped Material Is Best.

Silo filling crews are being reduced in number as farmers discover that the tramping of silage is not necessary and that untramped silage is often of higher quality than the forage packed by tramping.

"Untramped silage is of as good or better quality than tramped silage," declares E. J. Delwiche, superintendent of the Ashland and Sturgeon Bay branch (Wisconsin) experiment stations, when summarizing silo filling experiences at the experimental farms. "Since tramping is generally uneven and results in many pockets, there is less mold in the untramped silage.

"To seal the top of the silage, the last few feet should always be carefully leveled and tramped when tramping is not done.

"The ideal arrangement when the silo is filled without tramping would be to have the distributor fixed so that a man could control it without walking on the corn. Such a plan would completely eliminate air pockets resulting from tramping.

First attempted during the war when farm labor was difficult to secure, filling silos without tramping was found to be a surprising success, explains Delwiche, and has since become a common practice on many dairy farms. Instead of keeping the customary crew of two or three men inside the silo, some farmers use but one man or a boy to level off the corn while others remove all but the first two or three sections of the distributor pipe, leaving the corn distribute itself by gravity as it forms a cone shaped pile in the center of the silo.

Lime Compost Is Proper Substitute for Manure

Compost-making is almost a lost art but at one time it flourished vigorously. Some of the farmers of 50 years ago were great adepts in the art. In certain districts compost heaps are still made, and the practice might well become general. The type of compost that has persisted longest is the old "lime" compost, which is made with soft vegetable waste, mold and lime. The demand for stable manure is far in excess of the supply, because of the increased motor transport. The old economic law works, and prices have risen beyond the reach of many. By increasing the supply of manure farmers can in a large measure supply themselves, and do a public service in cheapening the commodity.

If the plant waste is used as decayed manure, there is returned to the ground what the crops have extracted, and what has been breathed in by the plants out of the air. All that woodland receives in the shape of soil feeding is its own fallen foliage and some nitrogen in the rain. Compost material is a complete food, holding nitrogen, potash, phosphate and lime.

Color of Army Uniforms

Khaki is derived from a Hindu word meaning dust-colored. In some parts of India the roads and fields are very dusty during the dry season. Their appearance at that time is the color originally described as khaki. British troops in India adopted this color for protection in 1882, and the United States adopted it during the Spanish American war. The color of today's American army uniform is olive drab.

WHAT IS A BARGAIN?

In this community are hundreds of individuals and families on the watch for an advertisement which will offer them what they want at at an advantageous price.

Call them bargain-hunters if you like, but thrifty shoppers would be the better designation. Thrift is a commendable trait and merchants should cater to it.

One family wants a new carpet---the need is not urgent. Another family is looking forward to buying dining-room furniture--it may not be for a twelve month.

One man is thinking of buying himself a watch. A woman a shopping bag; another an umbrella.

All can be made to buy earlier---by advertising. Advertising can make the desire so keen that the bargain is forgoten in the fever for immediate possession.

A Note To Merchants

Stimulate business by the offer of some slow moving lines at special prices. Brighten up business by advertising some desirable goods at reduced prices. Make advertising banish dull business. Often you can tempt the buyer who is biding his or her time, to buy from you at a time of your naming.

WHAT IS A BARGAIN?

In this community are hundreds of individuals and families on the watch for an advertisement which will offer them what they want at at an advantageous price.

Call them bargain-hunters if you like, but thrifty shoppers would be the better designation. Thrift is a commendable trait and merchants should cater to it.

One family wants a new carpet---the need is not urgent. Another family is looking forward to buying dining-room furniture--it may not be for a twelve month.

One man is thinking of buying himself a watch. A woman a shopping bag; another an umbrella.

All can be made to buy earlier---by advertising. Advertising can make the desire so keen that the bargain is forgoten in the fever for immediate possession.

A Note To Merchants

Stimulate business by the offer of some slow moving lines at special prices. Brighten up business by advertising some desirable goods at reduced prices. Make advertising banish dull business. Often you can tempt the buyer who is biding his or her time, to buy from you at a time of your naming.

Brainerd Association Shows Rapid Growth in 1928 Business

H. P. DUNN RETIRES

Contingent Fund Increased From $697.09 in 1927 to $1,242.02 in 1928

The annual meeting of the Brainerd Building and Loan association was held at the court house Thursday night, January 24. The reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were read and approved. S. R. Adair, E. O. Webb and Henry Krause were elected directors for a term of three years. Every year three directors are elected for a three year term. This leaves six old directors always on the board, and as usual, the old members were re-elected.

Very few changes have taken place in the board since its organization. Those that have occurred have been caused by removal from the city or death. Many expressions of regret were voiced at the retirement of H. P. Dunn, and a rising vote of thanks was tendered him in appreciation of his past services. Mr. Dunn responded in a happy way and a regular "love feast" was held.

A rising vote of thanks was given the officers and directors and the meeting adjourned. The board of directors then held their meeting and elected the following officers:

President—S. R. Adair.
First Vice President—E. L. Dahl.
Second Vice President—John Carlson.
Secretary—Wm. Nelson.
Treasurer—Henry Krause.
Attorneys—Wieland and Sullivan.

The other directors are E. O. Webb, J. A. Krause, R. L. Geist and Paul H. Schuldt.

The annual report of the association is included in the following letter sent to members by S. R. Adair, president.

"This is the 6th annual report of the association and while we have shown a steady growth each year, 1928 is our banner year. Our home owners have increased from a total of 49 at the close of 1927, to 82 at the close of business, 1928. Our mortgage loans at the close of 1927 amounted to $77,831.47 and increased in 1928 to $127,087.62, an increase of $49,256.15 in the year 1928.

"Our contingent fund has increased from $697.09 in 1927 to $1,242.02 in 1928. The contingent fund is created by setting aside each year 5 per cent of the gross earnings and is a safety valve to take care of any loss that might occur. This means that had the association suffered a loss in 1928, amounting to $1,242.02, it could have been taken care of, and the association would have paid its 7 per cent dividend just the same. This fund will increase more rapidly in the future and will without a doubt safeguard any possible emergency.

"It is hard to realize just what our association is doing or has accomplished. In the average city block there are from 10 to 12 homes. If we can visualize 7 city blocks all built up with homes (an average of one block of new home owners per year) we may better understand the contribution of our association to the city of Brainerd. And as our primary objective is home ownership, we may be justly proud of our seven years of service.

"We now have a membership of 284 members owning 2207 shares of stock. There are three distinct plans of Building and Loan operating in this state, viz: The Serial Plan—The Permanent Plan and our plan, which is the Dayton Plan, or local plan. As I understand the present laws of our state there can be only association organized under the Dayton plan: two kinds, one doing a state-wide business and the other confined to defined districts.

"A few of the safeguards surrounding the newer Building and Loan associations in Minnesota are:

"The laws of Minnesota relating to Building and Loan associations were amended, re-arranged and compiled during the 1925 session of the legislature. These laws were recently given an "A" rating in a survey made throughout the United States by the Magazine of Wall Street.

"Building & Loan associations are under the same constant supervision of the state banking department as our state banks, savings banks and trust copmanies.

"Every dollar invested is secured by first mortgages on improved real estate. The law prohibits the association from dealing in any other kind of mortgages or security. All mortgages and notes are non-negotiable.

"Operating expenses are limited by law to 2½ per cent and must be paid from the earnings. No part of investors' principal can be used for expenses. Our association operates at a cost of 1-5 of 1 per cent.

"The law requires the association to create and maintain a reserve fund equal to 5 per cent of its resources. The law explicitly forbids the association to engage in real estate or any other business whatsoever. All speculation is prohibited.

"Borrowers must reduce their principal each month, as well as pay the interest on the loan. Consequently the security becomes better each month. All checks for the Building & Loan money must be signed by at least two executive officers. All officers having custody of funds are amply bonded.

"The new laws controlling the organization and safeguarding the operation of the Buliding & Loan association will be of great help to legitimate associations.

"We have the important duty of electing three members to serve on the board of directors. The terms of the following members expire today: S. R. Adair, E. O. Webb and H. P. Dunn.

"I regret very much to report that Mr. Dunn will be unable to serve further. Circumstances over which he has no control compel him to ask to be relieved. I take this opportunity to express on the part of myself and the board of directors our sincere regrets and our great appreciation of his helpful service in the past. I further thank all members of the board for their cooperation the past year."

New State Organization With Headquarters at Brainerd Founded

C. THOMPSON, PRESIDENT

Relief and Protective Legislation to be Sought by Organization

A new state organization came into existence Saturday afternoon with the founding here of the Minnesota Muskrat and Beaver Breeders association with headquarters to be established in Brainerd.

An enthusiastic group of breeders voted in the following officers and directors:

President — Clement Thompson, Motley.

Vice President—R. E. Davis, Minneapolis.

Secretary—Leon Thompson, Motley.

Treasurer — Slyvester Sandusky, Staples.

Directors for two years, A. E. Weitting, Blackduck; George L. Ramsey, Pillager; William Scoffield, Deer River; R. P. Thielman, St. Cloud. Directors for one year, Emmett Carson, St. Paul; Richard N. Gardner, Staples; Martin Hinzelman, Itasca Park.

The membership fee was set at $5.

On motion the officers were empowered to appoint a legislative committee of five, the committee to draft resolutions to be presented to the Minnesota state legislature, seeking relief for the muskrat and beaver breeders in the state.

The executive committee to be composed of officers of the association was instructed to prepare the bylaws of the organization.

The annual meeting of the association will be held in Brainerd the first week in November, 1929, the exact date to be determined later.

Attorney Hilding Swanson, Brainerd, acted as chairman during the organizing of the association.

The new association was organized for the purpose of seeking relief for the muskrat and beaver breeder, to protect his welfare and to benefit by exchange of thought imparted by different members of the association.

F. C. Hotz, of Staples acted as temporary secretary of the meeting.

The Legislative Committee appointed by the officers follows: Clement Thompson, Motley; Richard N. Gardner, Staples; Hilding Swanson, Brainerd.

After the meeting a banquet was held in the New Brainerd hotel.

BAPTIST CHURCH CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Rev. L. R. Hall Held Services Three Weeks at First Baptist Church

TWO SERMONS SUNDAY

Evangelist Expressed Appreciation for Publicity Given by Dispatch

The three weeks evangelistic campaign conducted by Rev. Leslie R. Hall of Anoka, closed last evening at the First Baptist church. Two stirring messages were given yesterday by Mr. Hall; in the morning on the subject, "The God Seeking Man and the Man Seeking God," and in the evening on "The Wedding Ring." Throughout the campaign the church and all who have attended the meetings have been greatly pleased with the ministry and messages of Mr. Hall.

In his morning sermon Mr. Hall made these statements, "Some imagine that the world is getting better, and that social reform will usher in the Kingdom of God, but the Bible teaches just the reverse. It tells us that ungodly men will wax worse and worse, and indicates that there is a leaven of corruption that will ultimately leaven the entire mass of society. In such days as these we are to stand with the courage of Gideon against the adversaries of the truth, and against the powers of darkness. The trouble with the world today is to be found in the failure of the church, and the failure of the church is grounded in the fact that so many of its members have never been born again."

In the evening attention was called to the parable of the Prodigal Son. "The robe which the father placed upon the returning son was characterized as being the robe of Jesus righteousness which is received in place of the filthy garments of sin. The shoes which were placed on the feet are indicative of the preparation for service which God gives to those who return to Him. The ring is typical of authority over the possessions which belong to the Father. It is a ring which indicates community of possessions, and which shows the measure of trust which the Father imposes in the Son." It was a strong evangelistic appeal which was made throughout the sermon and all were gripped by the power of the message as it was given.

In the opening part of the evening service a resolution was passed condemning the circular advertising recently mailed by the Lyceum theatre which was declared to be subversive of the morals of the community.

A surprise was sprung on the pastor by the starting of a fund for a new car.

The evangelist expressed his appreciation for the generous publicity given the meetings by the Daily Dispatch.

A Difference that cannot be measured in Dollars

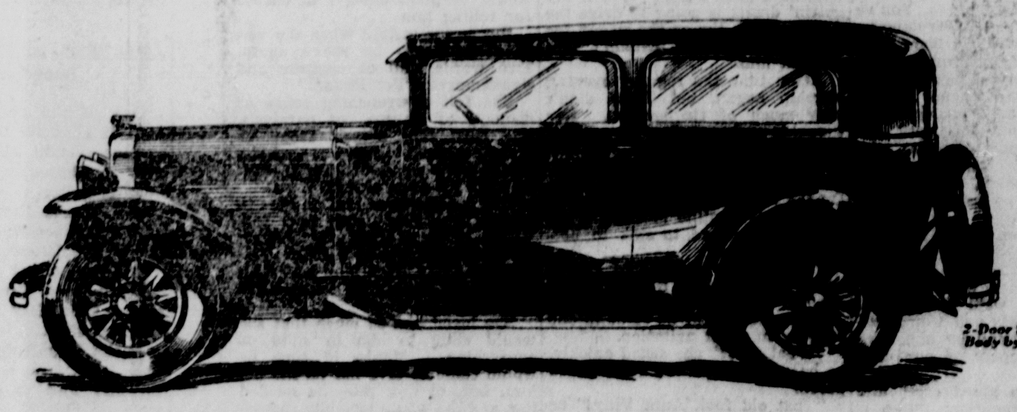

SOMEBODY suggests this simple test for automobile buyers. Write down the price of a New Pontiac Big Six. Now write below it the price of any lower-priced car you can think of. Subtract. Lo and behold! Only a few dollars difference! But what a difference there is in the cars—and it cannot be measured in dollars!

It's true, of course, that in the New Pontiac Big Six you get greater overall length, a bigger engine and such fine car advantages as dirt-and-weather-proof internal four-wheel brakes. Those are features which can be measured in money. But the real difference is even more important than that. It's really a matter of progress. When you're getting on in the world, you want finer things. And that's where the Pontiac Big Six fits in.

It offers big car performance resulting from its big, new L-head engine, its accurately balanced rotating parts, Hotchkiss drive, and its many other mechanical advancements. It offers the luxury, comfort and style provided by masterly new bodies by Fisher.

Yes, you could always get that in an automobile. But never before at Pontiac's price. That's why the Pontiac Big Six is creating such a furore!

Prices $745 and up, f. o. b. factory, plus delivery charges. Bumpers and rear fender guards regular equipment at slight extra cost. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

HANDSOME Guinn Holden, young minister, newly arrived in a small Texas town, was unaware of the deep love borne for him by Irene Robeline, one of his parishoners. He married the gay and coquettish Lilith, a beautiful bit of femininity, whose boast was that "every boy in town had proposed to her at least twice." A year later Lilith died at childbirth. The infant, also named Lilith, is her father's greatest joy, but suffers from lack of proper care. Irene, tortured by Guinn's worries and still devoted to him, rejects the marriage proposal of Will Lundy, town doctor, who had been keeping company with her, and, according to Mattie Anson, village gossip, would make a good match. Irene tells Will of her secret love for the minister. She asks Will to champion the clergyman's cause in a clash with the deacons over the expulsion of a member who got drunk.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

RUFE WHITAKER, looking important, read from the paper in his hand: "Whereas our brother, Buck Evans, has been drunk and disorderly, thereby bringing reproach on the good name of the church, and setting a bad example for the youth of the congregation, be it resolved that the fellowship of the church be withdrawn from him."

The congregation listened in a stillness like a vacuum. The whole scene seemed unreal to Irene, like the wavering vision of a dream: Rufe Whitaker with his fried-egg face, Deacon Hitchcock with his long gray beard like a billy goat's, and all the other deacons somehow stiffened in their belligerency, as if they felt the psychic opposition to their sentiments, and all around them the youth of the church, waiting, hostile, challenging.

"I move the motion be carried," said Rufe Whitaker.

"Second the motion," came from Deacon Hitchcock's gray beard.

The pastor gripped the pulpit stand and looked white and stern. "You have heard the motion, and second. Is there any discussion?"

Rufe Whitaker rose again to speak. "If the brother sees fit to confess his sin and ask the church to forgive him . . ."

"I'll see you in hell first!" Buck shouted from the back of the church.

The chairman of the board of deacons gave a gesture expressive of helplessness, said "You see!" and sat down hastily, because his wife jerked his coat tail.

Deacon Rutherford, the hardest of the lot, was gathering himself together ready to speak when Will Lundy sprang to his feet.

"I speak in behalf of the young men of the church," he began quickly. "Our deacons haven't thought what it will mean if this motion carries. Can the church hope to win young men if it turns its back on a fellow when he needs help most? What's taking a drink, compared to lack of Christian charity?"

A murmur passed over the congregation, and the young men leaned forward to hear.

Lundy went on rapidly, lest a deacon might interrupt. "Next month you'll begin the annual revival. The deacons will try to round up the boys to get them into the church. Do you think any of 'em'll come, after this? Is the church a jail, with guards watching every step? If it is, then give me my letter of dismissal now, for I'm liable to make some blunder that'll kick me out. If you want any young men in the church, better watch out how you betray us!"

He sat down.

Irene sprang to her feet and won surprised recognition from the chair.

"Maybe you are thinking that Saint Paul said for women to keep silence in the churches. Well, it was Saint Paul and not Christ that said it. I speak on behalf of the girls of the church. You've turned some of us out for dancing and card playing. Others that should be here are afraid to trust themselves under the power of the deacons. Have the deacons forgotten what it is to be young? Are they without sin themselves? . . Now that we have a pastor who is trying to win back the young people to the church, are we going to cripple him by such action as this?"

She hurried on. "Can the pastor keep his self-respect and stay on here if we treat him like this? If this vote carries, we'll lose him, that's all. And we'll deserve to. I call on the girls and women of this church to stand by him. Are the deacons keepers of our consciences?"

Guinn Holden stood erect and faced the congregation. "She is right. I have my letter of resignation ready to present as soon as this vote is carried. I could not stay if the spirit expressed in this resolution is to rule the church."

"Question!" called Will Lundy.

"Question! Question!" shouted young men from the rear seats.

One whiskered deacon rose in agitation to speak, but was shouted down by tumultuons outcries of "Question! Question! Question!"

The pastor put the motion. Nine deacons rose, stolidly, or belligerently, or apologetically. But they rose alone. Each deacon looked his astonishment at seeing that the one wife of whom he was husband had traitorously kept her seat. "What was the world coming to?" their whiskers seemed to ask in vain. Abby Whitaker made a face at her father.

"All who are oppposed to this motion please rise," said the pastor.

The couples in the rear sprang joyously to their feet, as at a touchdown. The older folk rose as promptly as their rheumatism and surprise permitted.

"The motion is lost," said the pastor, with an apologetic glance

Buck crowded his way down front.

at the deacons; then, smiling his winning smile, said: "I am very glad that my friend Buck and I are to have another chance with you."

Then Buck came shouldering his way through the crowd down to the front and gave him his hand.

"Can't let a little thing like an apology stand between me and the pastor," he said. Then, with a shake of his shaggy head, he went on: "That was a pretty thorough spree of mine, and so I reckon it'll last me a good while. And if my gettin' drunk is going to drive the parson away, I'm on the wagon for good. This town couldn't run without him."

After that the regular evening worship began, but Irene didn't hear much of the sermon. Her thoughts went up like skyrockets. Guinn would stay!

Next day she waited for him, and the next, but he didn't come. On the third day he came, but discussed only routine matters, while her heart seemed to sink to bottomless depths.

"It was awfully good of you to do so much to save Buck!" As if she had been fighting for Buck!

Two weeks later he came in one evening in great agitation.

"What is it?" she asked quickly, as he met her on the vine-shaded porch.

"That old fool, Aunt Viny!" he burst out.

"What has she done now?"

"You know the doctor said Lilith could eat simple foods now she's a year old, cereals and well-cooked vegetables."

"Yes. I told her how to prepare them. What has she done?"

His agitation was almost too great for utterance. "I went into the kitchen tonight when she was feeding the baby, but she didn't see me. The filthy creature was chewing the food herself and putting it in my baby's mouth!"

Irene shuddered. "Horrible!"

"And that isn't all. She was feeding the baby pot liquor, I found out. Greasy water she'd been boiling cabbage or turnips in. Pot liquor for my baby!"

Irene's indignation matched his. "I'll give her a straight talking to tomorrow. I'll keep a sharp eye on her after this."

He groaned. "A man is so helpless. I don't know what to do about anything. I need help in a thousand ways."

Yes, that was true, he did. Clever of him to recognize it. Her heart surged upward with the thought that he needed her, and realized it!

He turned abruptly with determination, his face white in the moonlight, with flickering vine shadows across it. "If only you would marry me! I need you so much! Would you, Irene?"

Would she?

She couldn't speak for a moment, for the deliriousness of her joy. At last he loved her!

"Will you, Irene?" he asked anxiously, coming closer to her and holding out his hands. "You don't know what it would mean to me."

"I will," she said simply, as if she were making her vow in the church.

"Let's run away tomorrow," he said with eagerness.

"Yes, yes."

As his arms enfolded her she shivered with bliss long delayed. In a moment she would tell him how she loved him . . . how she had waited for his love . . . how it meant more than heaven and earth to her to know he loved her and wanted her for his wife. . . . In a moment——

Then she slipped her arms about his neck and wondered what words would be good enough to choose for telling him . . .

But in the instant when she was about to begin he spoke again. Two words, full of emotion and significance: "Pot liquor!"

She felt a wrenching sense of dismay, of nausea, of paralysis. She must tear herself from his arms, she must shriek out that she would have none of him if that was all his love meant. . . .

But his lips were laid on hers in a quiet kiss, not such a mad, passionate kiss as that the Wilton twin had seen him give Lilith. She writhed away from him, and then she let his arms close around her again. . . .

She loved him so much that she would cling to him in spite of everything. Maybe in time he would come to love her as she did him, but, at any rate, he needed her, and she would love him enough for both. . . .

But—"Pot liquor!"

That night she cried herself to sleep. The next day she married the minister.

After-Effects of Flu More Dangerous Than Flu Itself

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu-attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime. —Adv

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

HANDSOME Guinn Holden, young minister, newly arrived in a small Texas town, was unaware of the deep love borne for him by Irene Robeline, one of his parishoners. He married the gay and coquettish Lilith, a beautiful bit of femininity, whose boast was that "every boy in town had proposed to her at least twice." A year later Lilith died at childbirth. The infant, also named Lilith, is her father's greatest joy, but suffers from lack of proper care. Irene, tortured by Guinn's worries and still devoted to him, rejects the marriage proposal of Will Lundy, town doctor, who had been keeping company with her, and, according to Mattie Anson, village gossip, would make a good match. Irene tells Will of her secret love for the minister. She asks Will to champion the clergyman's cause in a clash with the deacons over the expulsion of a member who got drunk.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

RUFE WHITAKER, looking important, read from the paper in his hand: "Whereas our brother, Buck Evans, has been drunk and disorderly, thereby bringing reproach on the good name of the church, and setting a bad example for the youth of the congregation, be it resolved that the fellowship of the church be withdrawn from him."

The congregation listened in a stillness like a vacuum. The whole scene seemed unreal to Irene, like the wavering vision of a dream: Rufe Whitaker with his fried-egg face, Deacon Hitchcock with his long gray beard like a billy goat's, and all the other deacons somehow stiffened in their belligerency, as if they felt the psychic opposition to their sentiments, and all around them the youth of the church, waiting, hostile, challenging.

"I move the motion be carried," said Rufe Whitaker.

"Second the motion," came from Deacon Hitchcock's gray beard.

The pastor gripped the pulpit stand and looked white and stern. "You have heard the motion, and second. Is there any discussion?"

Rufe Whitaker rose again to speak. "If the brother sees fit to confess his sin and ask the church to forgive him . . ."

"I'll see you in hell first!" Buck shouted from the back of the church.

The chairman of the board of deacons gave a gesture expressive of helplessness, said "You see!" and sat down hastily, because his wife jerked his coat tail.

Deacon Rutherford, the hardest of the lot, was gathering himself together ready to speak when Will Lundy sprang to his feet.

"I speak in behalf of the young men of the church," he began quickly. "Our deacons haven't thought what it will mean if this motion carries. Can the church hope to win young men if it turns its back on a fellow when he needs help most? What's taking a drink, compared to lack of Christian charity?"

A murmur passed over the congregation, and the young men leaned forward to hear.

Lundy went on rapidly, lest a deacon might interrupt. "Next month you'll begin the annual revival. The deacons will try to round up the boys to get them into the church. Do you think any of 'em'll come, after this? Is the church a jail, with guards watching every step? If it is, then give me my letter of dismissal now, for I'm liable to make some blunder that'll kick me out. If you want any young men in the church, better watch out how you betray us!"

He sat down.

Irene sprang to her feet and won surprised recognition from the chair.

"Maybe you are thinking that Saint Paul said for women to keep silence in the churches. Well, it was Saint Paul and not Christ that said it. I speak on behalf of the girls of the church. You've turned some of us out for dancing and card playing. Others that should be here are afraid to trust themselves under the power of the deacons. Have the deacons forgotten what it is to be young? Are they without sin themselves? . . Now that we have a pastor who is trying to win back the young people to the church, are we going to cripple him by such action as this?"

She hurried on. "Can the pastor keep his self-respect and stay on here if we treat him like this? If this vote carries, we'll lose him, that's all. And we'll deserve to. I call on the girls and women of this church to stand by him. Are the deacons keepers of our consciences?"

Guinn Holden stood erect and faced the congregation. "She is right. I have my letter of resignation ready to present as soon as this vote is carried. I could not stay if the spirit expressed in this resolution is to rule the church."

"Question!" called Will Lundy.

"Question! Question!" shouted young men from the rear seats.

One whiskered deacon rose in agitation to speak, but was shouted down by tumultuons outcries of "Question! Question! Question!"

The pastor put the motion. Nine deacons rose, stolidly, or belligerently, or apologetically. But they rose alone. Each deacon looked his astonishment at seeing that the one wife of whom he was husband had traitorously kept her seat. "What was the world coming to?" their whiskers seemed to ask in vain. Abby Whitaker made a face at her father.

"All who are oppposed to this motion please rise," said the pastor.

The couples in the rear sprang joyously to their feet, as at a touchdown. The older folk rose as promptly as their rheumatism and surprise permitted.

"The motion is lost," said the pastor, with an apologetic glance at the deacons; then, smiling his winning smile, said: "I am very glad that my friend Buck and I are to have another chance with you."

Buck crowded his way down front.

Then Buck came shouldering his way through the crowd down to the front and gave him his hand.

"Can't let a little thing like an apology stand between me and the pastor," he said. Then, with a shake of his shaggy head, he went on: "That was a pretty thorough spree of mine, and so I reckon it'll last me a good while. And if my gettin' drunk is going to drive the parson away, I'm on the wagon for good. This town couldn't run without him."

After that the regular evening worship began, but Irene didn't hear much of the sermon. Her thoughts went up like skyrockets. Guinn would stay!

Next day she waited for him, and the next, but he didn't come. On the third day he came, but discussed only routine matters, while her heart seemed to sink to bottomless depths.

"It was awfully good of you to do so much to save Buck!" As if she had been fighting for Buck!

Two weeks later he came in one evening in great agitation.

"What is it?" she asked quickly, as he met her on the vine-shaded porch.

"That old fool, Aunt Viny!" he burst out.

"What has she done now?"

"You know the doctor said Lilith could eat simple foods now she's a year old, cereals and well-cooked vegetables."

"Yes. I told her how to prepare them. What has she done?"

His agitation was almost too great for utterance. "I went into the kitchen tonight when she was feeding the baby, but she didn't see me. The filthy creature was chewing the food herself and putting it in my baby's mouth!"

Irene shuddered. "Horrible!"

"And that isn't all. She was feeding the baby pot liquor, I found out. Greasy water she'd been boiling cabbage or turnips in. Pot liquor for my baby!"

Irene's indignation matched his. "I'll give her a straight talking to tomorrow. I'll keep a sharp eye on her after this."

He groaned. "A man is so helpless. I don't know what to do about anything. I need help in a thousand ways."

Yes, that was true, he did. Clever of him to recognize it. Her heart surged upward with the thought that he needed her, and realized it!

He turned abruptly with determination, his face white in the moonlight, with flickering vine shadows across it. "If only you would marry me! I need you so much! Would you, Irene?"

Would she?

She couldn't speak for a moment, for the deliriousness of her joy. At last he loved her!

"Will you, Irene?" he asked anxiously, coming closer to her and holding out his hands. "You don't know what it would mean to me."

"I will," she said simply, as if she were making her vow in the church.

"Let's run away tomorrow," he said with eagerness.

"Yes, yes."

As his arms enfolded her she shivered with bliss long delayed. In a moment she would tell him how she loved him . . . how she had waited for his love . . . how it meant more than heaven and earth to her to know he loved her and wanted her for his wife. . . . In a moment——

Then she slipped her arms about his neck and wondered what words would be good enough to choose for telling him . . .

But in the instant when she was about to begin he spoke again. Two words, full of emotion and significance: "Pot liquor!"

She felt a wrenching sense of dismay, of nausea, of paralysis. She must tear herself from his arms, she must shriek out that she would have none of him if that was all his love meant. . . .

But his lips were laid on hers in a quiet kiss, not such a mad, passionate kiss as that the Wilton twin had seen him give Lilith. She writhed away from him, and then she let his arms close around her again. . . .

She loved him so much that she would cling to him in spite of everything. Maybe in time he would come to love her as she did him, but, at any rate, he needed her, and she would love him enough for both. . . .

But—"Pot liquor!"

That night she cried herself to sleep. The next day she married the minister.

After-Effects of Flu More Dangerous Than Flu Itself

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu-attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime. —Adv
